G. B. CUTLER SEED CO.

GEORGE

What will be your thought when you see the first robin or meadow lark? Spring, of course, and with the advent of spring comes the garden planning or what would be best to sow in the old pasture or what to feed those baby chicks when they arrive. When you think of seeds, you are wise if you think of Cutler Seed Company. Spring is just around the corner but which corner, I don't know. Maybe it's around the curve of one of those big drifts.

Every year I am called upon to write a few words for the first page of this little book. I'm like the old darky when a white friend came upon him on the street and said, "Rastus, I was very sorry to hear that you buried your wife." Rastus replied, "Yas suh, boss, ah jes had to—she was daid." I just have to write my piece in here or this seed book would be like so many other ones that are used to start fire with in the morning. There may not be perfect grammar in this here story but I try to put across a few good ideas on the best place to buy your field and garden seed. I believe the prices are just as low as I can make them and you still get good quality seed. You are given the privilege of testing a sample of any of the seed. That would be like the old farmer who wrote to Sears Roebuck & Co.: Please send me one of them gasoline engines which you advertise on page 799 and if it's any good, I'll send you a check. The following reply was received: "Send us the check and if it's any good we'll send the engine."

Last year I sent out 6,500 catalogs and I had the satisfaction of selling more bulk garden seed than any previous year. That alone tells a story. I think that within a few years I'll have all the gardeners converted from buying their seeds in the pretty colored packages and paying for the picture and getting less seed and inferior quality. If my reader is a fussy lady and likes to have her garden all decorated with nice bright pictures she can come in and buy her garden seed in my plain envelopes and I'll draw her some pictures for her garden. That's fair enough, don't you think? The gardeners can be glad that the government hasn't formed an AAA or ABC that limits the garden plot to so many feet or tells you what you must plant. No doubt if they did tell us what to plant they'd omit onions and who can live without an onion now and then? A fellow told me he knew a woman who lived on onions alone and I said a woman like that should live alone.

This year like preceding years, I shall carry a complete line of cabbage, tomato, onion and sweet potato plants in season. These plants are hardier than the home grown hot house variety for they are grown out in fields and cultivated like we cultivate corn. You know our nurseryman sells strawberry plants and he always tells his customers what to spread on them so they'll do well. Well, one day little Johnnie was watching the neighbor who had a pail of fertilizer and asked, "What are you doing with that?" "Putting it on the strawberries," said the neighbor. "Oh!" said Johnnie, "We always put cream and sugar on ours."

I'd like to see everyone try their luck with plants this year but I hope you have better luck than the professor had. A landlady was showing a room and said, "A professor formerly occupied this room, sir. He experimented with a new explosive." New Roomer: "Ah! I suppose those spots on the ceiling is the explosive." Landlady: "No, they're the professor."

Again I'll offer the same assortment of chick feeds, but I hope it doesn't affect your chickens as Mrs. Jones, the would-be chicken raiser who was having a little difficulty with her flock so she wrote the following letter to the Department of Agriculture: Something is wrong with my chickens. Every morning when I come out I find two or three lying on the ground cold and stiff with their feet in the air. Can you tell me what is the matter?" She received the following letter: "Dear Madam: Your chickens are dead."

Mrs. Jones couldn't understand why the baby chix should die so she asked the neighbor lady and she replied: "Well, what do you feed them?" "Feed them!" Mrs. Jones said, "why, nothing. Isn't the hen's milk enough for them at first?"

Now Mrs. Jones had an awful time and she worried a lot but here's an example of the way most of us are: First farmer (who had a college education): Which is correct, "A hen is sitting or a hen is setting?" Second Farmer: "I don't know nor care. All I bother about is when she cackles—is she laying or is she lying?"

Previous years I have written a little of my life history but as long as no one has ever offered me a medal for writing the best "Farmer boy makes good in the city" story, I guess I'll omit the details.

Last spring a young fellow came to me and said, "Mr. Cutler, your daughter has promised to be my wife." I said, "Well, don't come to me for sympathy, I knew something would happen to you hanging around the house every night." That was in the spring and again this fall another young man came to me asking if he could marry my other daughter and I told him to ask her not me. Evidently she, too, said "yes" for now I am minus two daughters. Now that they're off my hands perhaps I can settle down to the seed business and maybe save a few nickels because I doubt if the old-age pension will be in force when I reach that age so it's up to me. Those two young men must never come to me now and complain 'cause I warned' them that "horses, like dogs, are man's best friends", but one of the fellows asked me who wanted to come home and have a horse jump on his lap? We men folks gotta all stick together and we're all the same because we can't get along with women nor without them.

Last summer we (meaning my wife and I) didn't go on any vacation trip so I can't tell about the bear I saw nor the big fish I caught. But that reminds me of a good one. A fellow who always bragged about the big fish he caught would always prove the weight of the fish by weighing them on a scales in the presence of the listener. One day a new baby arrived at his house and as the doctor had forgotten to bring his scales he reached for the fisher's scales and to his surprise the baby weighed 49 pounds. We took a trip to my mother-in-laws for two weeks and called it square. I purchased a new car and a new dog last summer and they were both good buys. My wife said she had set her heart on a Rolls Royce and I told her that was the only part of her anatomy that would ever set on one.

It seems to me as I sit here and write this and look out and see all the snow piled in big drifts that if it ever thaws we'll have plenty of moisture this spring. I predict a good crop this year and the result will be a bunch of happy farmers and a pleased seedman. If you ever have any kick coming, please tell me and if you like the seed, tell others.

This is the end of my story like the little boy whose teacher asked him to make a sentence with the words "bitter end" in it. He said our cat ran up a fence and the neighbor's dog bitter end.

ALFALFA

Our seed all comes to us in sealed and branded bags, and is of the 1st grade. You have likely been hearing over the radio about the cheap seed you can buy. If you have, send for sample and see then if you want the grade of seed advertised.

Northern Grown Alfalfa

This does not need any explanation as everybody knows how good it is and every farm should have a few acres.

Do not buy Alfalfa seed that is offered cheap as it may be southern grown seed which is always cheaper than northern grown seed. The southern grown alfalfa, grown from this seed will not stand our cold winters.

This year the Minnesota law says that no Grimm's Alfalfa can be sold without a state seal so do not be misled by buying cheaper seed from some other state that does not have that law. Our seed is the blue tag or the best grade, put up in towel bags 30 and 60 pounds each and the price for that kind of Grimm's Alfalfa is per lb. -----26c

Our Cossack Alfalfa, as perhaps you all know, is a hardy plant, as much so as Grimm's, but makes a finer grade of hay.

Our price is per lb. -----26c

The Dakota 12 is nothing new, we all know about that.

Our price is per lb. -----22c

Minnesota grown -----20c

Nitragin

Inoculate your alfalfa and clover with Nitragin for best results.

Tommy played truant from school one day, and wrote a note of excuse, signing it with his mother's name, as follows: "Deer Teecher, please excuse Tommy for being absent yesterday. I tore my pants. Yours truly, Mrs. Jones."

Grundy Co. or Dwarf Sweet Clover

It is a great deal finer, more like alfalfa. Makes better hay than common sweet clover.

Per lb. 7c

Alsike

This is by all means the best clover for a low land pasture.

Price per lb. 24c

White Dutch Clover

This is the kind to sow on your lawn. Also good in a pasture mixture.
